Canada.com

“I want to share with Canada the voices of people who are making their local communities vibrantly sustainable”

- Eily Sweeney

Eily Sweeney and Alex Meyer

on their 2000 km bike ride from Calgary to Vancouver Island.

“Through great personal concern for the Planet, I see a critical mission to raise awareness of how local environmental action can truly make a difference. This tour will highlight the green building practices and community based action of at least 15 small sustainable initiatives, projects and municipalities. I aim to encourage other young people to develop the same critical mission of action; to inspire them to become involved in the sustainable development of their own local communities.”
